Both Sides in Fight Over Utility Investigation Claim Most Votes

WALSH WANTS PROBE

More Pressure from "Back Home" on Senators' Decisions Than Ever Before

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Both sides in the fight over whether the public utility industry shall be investigated were claiming victory Monday.

The power interests feel that they have at least ten votes margin on the prospective vote in the senate to refer the whole question to the federal trade commission, while the friends of Senator Walsh, democrat of Montana, admit the vote will be close but are confident of having the resolution adopted which calls for the appointment of a special investigating committee of the senate.

Senator Walsh has been advised by some of his colleagues that in all their experience in the senate they have never been subjected to such intense pressure from back home as they are to vote against the pending resolution. The power interests announced several months ago that they intended to carry their case "back home" to the constituencies of the senate and the way senators who would be expected ordinarily to follow Senator Walsh are going over to the ranks of the other side is an indication of the way the battle is going. The Montana senator says frankly that he does not believe the public utility industry could stand a public investigation and that to refer the question to the federal trade commission, which he understands is the present effort of the power companies, would be to "bury the matter for a year or two."

Senator George of Georgia, democrat, already has announced that he will vote to refer to the federal trade commission and it is reliably reported that Senator Robinson of Arkansas, democrat leader, and Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi will do likewise. Presidential politics has been brought into the election discussion for it is being urged upon some of the friends of democratic candidates that if Senator Walsh is able to get his resolution passed he will take the center of the stage for several months just as he did in the Teapot Dome investigation, and that such publicity would crowd the other candidates somewhat.

WANT OIL INQUIRY

Another line of attack which has been effective in the case of one insurgent republican who would ordinarily vote with Senator Walsh is that if the Montana senator becomes occupied with the public utility investigation he will sidetrack the present oil inquiry which it is believed will lead to greater revelations of a political nature than could possibly be expected out of the utility investigation. This same senator is authority for the comment that even if the federal trade commission fails to bring in a prompt report the senate can then just as well as now pass a resolution of investigation similar to that proposed by Senator Walsh.

The Montana senator in appearing before the senate interstate commerce committee used excerpts from the preliminary investigation of holding companies made by the federal trade commission and when he opens the debate next week he will point to the conclusions drawn by the commission. Others, like Senator Norris of Nebraska, who have lost faith in the federal trade commission because of a belief that President Coolidge by the use of the appointing power has "stacked" the commission with ultra conservatives, will contend that the place for an investigation is by a senate committee. The vote will be close and the utility interest may spring a surprise as they did when they mustered enough votes to have the resolution held up for preliminary hearings in the first place.

It is a battle of the giants and the individual senators accustomed to being outmaneuvered in Washington are feeling the effects of pressure from their own political constituents at home who in turn have been told of the reasons why the power industry does not want what it fears will be a political investigation by the senate, welcoming on the other hand, a thorough inquiry by the federal trade commission.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH AT PULASKI

Pulaski, Mo.—Two small children of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Suma burned to death Sunday night when fire believed to have started from an overheated stove trapped the children while alone in the flat over a meat market. The dead are Mary 4 and Regina, eight months.

The charred bodies of the two children were found in a room of the flat after the blaze was extinguished.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Suma when she returned from a visit to a neighbor. She had left the children alone, expecting to be gone only a few minutes. The fire had gained such headway she was unable to reach the children.

TWIN CITY FLIER SETS NEW RECORD FOR LOOPING LOOP

Minneapolis, Minn.—(AP)—For the second time within a week, a twin city flier has set what it is believed to be a new world's record for looping the loop in an airplane—1,995 loops.

The mark was established here Sunday by Charles "Speed" Holman, who holds several air mail records between Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Chicago.

Flying the 300-horsepower plane in which he won the Class A event in the National Cross Country Air Derby last year, Holman beat the figure hung up Feb. 4 at St. Paul by Gene Shank, young law student of that city. Shank looped 515 times, or 200 times more than the old recognized mark.

Holman's feat was the more remarkable because his loops were consecutive—that is, he continued sweeping in one great circle, instead of climbing to new altitudes after a series of somersaults. "Speed" was in the air slightly more than 4 1/2 hours.

HAIG MINE TAKES 13 MORE VICTIMS

Third Explosion in Five Years Brings Mine Death Total to 56

Whitehaven, England.—(AP)—The Haig mine pit where 13 men lost their lives Sunday in the third explosion in five years, was sealed again Monday. Fifty-six lives have been lost in the series of disastrous blasts.

The 13 victims were members of an exploring party of 21 who had entered the mine in search of the body of a miner lost in an explosion last December when four were killed. It was the first time the workings had been penetrated since the December explosion.

The searchers had reached the scene of the December explosion when four foot of rock fell within ten minutes. Foul air soon filled the mine, baffling all attempts at rescue.

The eight who reached the surface alive had left the main party to recharge their batteries and eat a lunch. They were about 500 yards away when the explosion occurred.

"Just as we finished eating," said one of the survivors, "I heard a dull rumbling, then came a second explosion and we all started to get out apparatus and go to the rescue of the others. A third explosion blinded us and before we could find our equipment we were knocked semi-conscious."

"Only one lamp remained lighted. Half crawling, half walking, guided only by wagon lines, we struggled to two miles to the pit shaft, it seems an eternity—and at times I never thought I could win through. The explosion had filled the air with a thick dust and we reached the surface completely exhausted."

HOPE DIMINISHED FOR CREW OF WRECKED TUG

Boston.—(AP)—Hope for three members of the crew of the wrecked naval tug Mohave who fled the craft in a punt after she piled up on Herring Ledge Sunday night on disarming Monday morning was dimmed when the tug was found Monday morning nearly two miles from the scene of the wreck. The punt was right side up but filled with water. The remainder of the crew was rescued.

The Mohave's S O S halted broadcasting and sent a flutilla steaming to her assistance. The destroyer Maury found the tug listing badly with a serious hole in her bow, while the tug was successful in removing all of the survivors from their waterlogged ship.

Lonely Menasha Man Has $40,000 For Siren Girl

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Moved by the solicitude and tenderness for her aged parents, which 19-year old Beatrice Alberts has shown by offering to marry any man who will give $5,000 to keep them in comfort during their declining years, a score of men from Milwaukee and all parts of the state Monday pleaded for a chance to lay their hearts and fortunes at the feet of the Siren Girl.

Men ranging in age from 20 to 70 were the first to respond to Miss Alberts' proposal.

Some of the men offered actual wealth—far more than Miss Alberts had suggested in her stipulation. Others, the younger applicants, explained in many instances that, although they did not have $5,000, they had good jobs and excellent prospects and were willing to provide a home for the old couple.

Some of the writers sent their photographs.

Merchants Declare Against Trying to Force "Off" Merchandise

It is human trait for people to look for "bargains" when they go shopping, and to give them real "bargains" is one of the surest ways of getting regular customers, a bulletin to Appleton merchants from the Appleton Advertising Club says in warning them to prepare for this city's first 1928 Dollar Day, to be held Thursday and Friday of this week.

The bulletin further informs them that it is not a good plan to try and dispose of "off" merchandise, but instead to offer good substantial, seasonable goods at large discounts. The advertising club bulletin points out that good merchants can hold customers if they can but get them, started trading there and this is a golden opportunity to get them started.

All in all, it looks like a profitable event for the customers. In many cases, merchandise offered on the bargain days is new goods, fresh and when the occasion warrants, of the latest style.

Further advertising features preceding the opening day, in addition to newspaper ads, banners on street corners and business and window stickers denoting the Dollar Day, will be decorated delivery wagons, informing prospective purchasers of the event.

MUDDY WABASH RIVER MAY SOLVE MYSTERY

Lafayette, Ind.—(AP)—The muddy Wabash, choked with ice, holds what Police Chief Everette believes to be the answer to the question authorities have sought since last Tuesday to answer: What happened to Deputy Sheriff John P. Grove and Wallace McClure.

Meantime search parties again Monday were organized to scour the countryside for traces of the deputies and the two prisoners they were driving to the state reformatory at Pendleton.

Although there have been the usual reports of being "seen" in several sections of the middlewest the two prisoners who were sentenced to serve 5 to 25 years robbery terms have not been seen since.

The two, Samuel Baxter, 19, and John Burns, 29, were last seen Tuesday afternoon several hours after the party of four left Lafayette. They left Grove's automobile in a Decatur, Ill., garage.

A mysterious telephone call to police here at Danville, Ill. Monday advised them to search empty freight cars on the Monon tracks near Marion, Ind., just outside of Lafayette, Ind., in quest of the bodies of the two missing deputy sheriffs who are believed to have been murdered by prisoners they were transporting.

TERRIFIC GALES TAKE HUGE TOLL

Fifty Deaths Feared as Hurricanes, Rain Cripple Shipping

London.—(AP)—A crippled shipping line which swept western Europe and the north Atlantic over the weekend was counted. It was feared that the deaths might mount to fifty. The loss of property was heavy.

Twenty-five lives are known to have been lost in Scandinavia and nine in Great Britain. Accidents to shipping were just becoming known although the drudge vessel Grinkel sank in the Mersey river six miles while the crew were missing and they were listed among the casualties Monday.

Houses were blown down, roofs carried away and a torrential rainfall which accompanied the hurricane caused fresh floods in the British Isles.

The wind blew at an average of 70 miles an hour at Liverpool with occasional gusts reaching 100 miles while on the opposite side of England at Tynemouth it was only a gentle two-mile breeze.

SENATE RECONSIDERS INDIAN LANDS BILL

Washington.—(AP)—Reconsidering acceptance of a House amendment to the senate bill, providing for improvements of Indian lands on the middle Rio Grande conservation district, the senate Monday referred the bill back to the Indian affairs committee.

Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota, moved for such action after Senator Frank, Democrat, New Mexico, said he had no objection to the course.

The Indian Defense Association protested against the house amendment which would not allow grants authorized in the original senate bill.

TWO PROBLEMS VEX CONFERENCE HEADS

Deadlock on Tariff, Intervention Still Faces Pan-American Session

Havana.—(AP)—The Pan-American conference was faced with two problems of a deadlock Monday on two questions—tariff and intervention.

Apparent conflict developed between delegates from Buenos Aires that the Argentine government was understood to have instructed Dr. Horacio Pueyrredon, head of the Argentine delegation, not to insist on the inclusion of an economic clause in the proposed convention.

The repeated announcement of Dr. Pueyrredon that he would sign a convention that did not include this clause.

The convention to regulate future activities on the Union was on its agenda. Dr. Pueyrredon wished to have the clause under discussion inserted in the preamble. At the last meeting of the conference it was agreed to consider first the actual articles of the treaty so as to allow time for second thoughts and consultation with home government.

Monday afternoon the sub-committee on public international law also was scheduled to meet to combine all views regarding the question of intervention by one state in the internal affairs of another.

The jurists recommended the first declaration: "No state may intervene in the internal affairs of another." The United States delegation was opposed any formula as sweeping as this and holds that the duty of a conference is to codify existing international law and not to introduce new concepts.

WISCONSIN AND NEIGHBORS POSE DIVERSION OF WATER FROM LAKES

Washington.—(AP)—Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin filed jointly in the Supreme court Monday a brief opposing the findings of Charles Evans Hughes in the Chicago Sanitary District case involving diversion of water from the Lake Michigan.

The four states contended that the diversion of Chicago had been approved from Lake Michigan for the drainage canal, and asserted that the federal government could not do so for sanitary purposes without compensation should the diversion involve damage.

Should the supreme court uphold the diversion, then every other great Lake state and Canada would have the right, the brief asserted, to divert lake water.

"If a single had upon this great usefulness for all times," it added, "natural resources does not destroy the multiplicity of such needs will do so."

New York, in a separate brief filed in the court, took issue with the findings of Mr. Hughes.

At noon the tourists were taken to the San Antonio Hotel where they were met by the Badger boosters.

The old and new world rubbed shoulders with each other in this old Spanish town. Up through the small business houses that skirted the depot, the tourists walked Monday morning, where Mexicans and Negroes seemed almost as numerous as whites. They gained a glimpse of old Mexico in some other sections.

U.S. WINNER IN SKIRMISH IN OIL CASE

Stewart Submits Brief to Show Why Habeas Corpus Writ Should Be Permanent

Washington.—(AP)—The government won a victory Monday when Justice Frederick L. Field, in upholding its objection to a writ of habeas corpus, said that United States authorities had shadowed trial cases for which of course Harry P. Sinclair, William J. Burns and three others are being tried for criminal contempt of court.

Sinclair hired Burns detective to shadow the FBI men in an attempt to get a writ which had been issued in the case.

Defense counsel pleaded the writ would show Sinclair in contempt of the court. They also argued that the writ should be permanent.

The government contended that it did not regard the writ as a contempt case.

In ruling, Justice emphasized his decision of last week that jury shadowing was unlawful.

PERMITS NAME TO BE PLACED ON OHIO SLATE

Commerce Head Accedes to Friends Though He Must Fight Willis

Washington.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover acceded Monday to a demand for permits to be placed on the Ohio slate for the presidential campaign, but he must fight Willis.

Commerce head acceded to the demand of his friends to carry forward the permit of the republican party and the most important of President Coolidge's plan.

According to the wish of a growing group of supporters, the commerce secretary has acceded to them to enter the name as a candidate in the forthcoming Ohio primaries. He thus claims the campaign fully aware of that it means a battle at the outset with the forces of Senator Willis, once another and more candidly, whose friends are determined to give him home at the 51 delegates to the Republican convention.

READY TO FIGHT

The senator who recently accepted that challenge of Hoover's foresaw a campaign in the state, that it would be a "war of attrition," said Sunday that he was ready for the contest and perfectly confident of the result.

Hoover announced himself in a letter to Thad H. Brown, chairman of the Ohio Hoover for president committee, who conferred with him Saturday with the Ohio senator.

"I have received, through you and through Hoover, letters and suggestions from very many Republicans of Ohio that I permit my name to be entered in the presidential primaries of that state. I do so."

WON'T CAMPAIGN

The secretary will retain his cabinet post and he indicated that he will not be able to make a personal campaign before the election.

"The election that I should not strive for the nomination," he said, "and my education as secretary of commerce preclude me from making a personal campaign. I must rely wholly upon my friends in Ohio, to conduct it and to conduct it in a fair manner and with as much regard for the public interest as the state and the nation. It is my wish that the election of 1928 be a strictly party election and that the results of the election now to be decided."

The election of Senator Hoover's campaign in Ohio will fall to Walter E. Brown, who is now assistant secretary of commerce.

WISCONSIN AND NEIGHBORS POSE DIVERSION OF WATER FROM LAKES

Washington.—(AP)—Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin filed jointly in the Supreme court Monday a brief opposing the findings of Charles Evans Hughes in the Chicago Sanitary District case involving diversion of water from the Lake Michigan.

The four states contended that the diversion of Chicago had been approved from Lake Michigan for the drainage canal, and asserted that the federal government could not do so for sanitary purposes without compensation should the diversion involve damage.

Should the supreme court uphold the diversion, then every other great Lake state and Canada would have the right, the brief asserted, to divert lake water.

"If a single had upon this great usefulness for all times," it added, "natural resources does not destroy the multiplicity of such needs will do so."

New York, in a separate brief filed in the court, took issue with the findings of Mr. Hughes.

PEABODY ASSAILS U.S. GOVERNMENT'S BIG NAVAL PROGRAM

Pastor Condemns Men Stirring Up Trouble Between England and America

Advocates of a "big navy" and jingoists alarming America and England with predictions of war between the two nations were denounced by Dr. H. E. Peabody in a sermon in First Congregational church Sunday morning.

After his sermon about seventy members of the congregation signed a protest against the program of the naval committee of the house and petitioned the government to seek further conference and treaty with England on disarmament.

Dr. Peabody told of the friendly relations that have existed between England and America for many years and explained Great Britain's subsistence for a navy sufficient to keep its sea lanes open so that a food supply from foreign countries is assured.

Following is the resolution signed after the church meeting:

"WHEREAS We learn that the House Naval Committee of Congress, with the approval of the Administration, have voted to recommend the construction of 71 ships costing $14,000,000, and this as the first unit of a 20 year building program costing $1.5 billion dollars.

"AND WHEREAS We believe this to be excessive, even for an adequate defense of our country.

"RESOLVED that we the undersigned voting citizens and members of the Congregational Church of Appleton, Wisconsin do hereby express our protests against this action for the following reasons:

"1st, that it would lay an unprecedented, needless and wasteful burden on the taxpayers of the country.

"2nd, that it would be the beginning of a competitive naval race with England, a friendly nation, and as such provocative and dangerous to the peace of the world.

"RESOLVED, further, that we petition our government to proceed at this time to seek further conference and Treaty with England on disarmament instead of engaging any such bill as the one proposed.

"And RESOLVED further, that these resolutions be forwarded to President Coolidge and copies of them to Congressman Schneider and Senators LaFollette and Blaine in Washington.

"Mt. 20:25, 27. Ye know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, but whosoever would be first among you shall be your servant.

"This familiar scripture contrasts the old way and the new way to win power and authority in the world: the old fighting way, and the new, Christian friendly way. Our theme this morning we shall call 'The Friendly Way.'

And this being Lincoln's birthday and a patriotic holiday, we venture not only to speak in this sermon of public Christian conduct, but also to take a second text from what we may justly call Lincoln's farewell address, the closing words of his second inaugural: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, we will strive to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations." That too we may fittingly call a text of "The Friendly Way."

This new, friendly way of solving problems and difficulties between nations, we call some times the way of conciliation and arbitration. Our statesmen, for generations have called it the American way.

Probably the two great nations of the world that are most friendly to each other are America and England. We not only have the same language, the same institutions, the same type of religion, but we have lived together, our territory touching on our northern border and the whole for over a hundred years in a state of profound peace. Not a fort nor a gun defends our three thousand miles of boundary, and it is the safest boundary on the planet. We have had acute difficulties and controversies but we have successfully settled them all by arbitration and treaty. We have learned how to practice the friendly way and have proved it to be the better way, in all kinds of weather. We do not fear nor hate England. Englishmen do not hate nor fear us. We are old friends. We are rivals of course in the same sense as two leading merchants on our main street are rivals for the trade of the community, but we are friendly rivals, as they are. There is no good reason why we should not stay so. Our mutual friendship is one of the world's greatest assets of peace and good will. If our friendly way should be changed into the old fighting way it would be a supreme disaster to humanity.

And our country today finds itself disturbed and alarmed because a menace to this friendship is beginning to arise in our Congress in Washington. The simplest facts of the menace are these: Because of the failure, for the time being, of the recent Naval Disarmament Conference in Geneva, our House Naval Committee, with the approval of the Administration has voted to ask Congress to vote this coming week (probably on Wednesday) a huge increase in the building program of our Navy. They are asking for the construction of 71 ships costing $14,000,000, and this is the first unit of a twenty year building program, costing two and a half billion dollars. That is the concrete fact that our country is facing.

This is an unprecedented expenditure for naval increase at a time when 82 cents of every dollar of taxes levied by the federal government already goes to pay for past or future wars; at a time also when our taxpayers are already calling loudly for a reduction of their burden of taxation.

And why are we to be asked to launch upon this enormous expenditure? In order that we may have a navy equal to or superior to the largest other navy in the world, that is, England's navy, either what England

ROCKEFELLER FACES SENATE OIL COMMITTEE

This is the way John D. Rockefeller, Jr., looked to the Senate Committee on Public Lands at Washington when he faced them as a witness in the committee's investigation of the Teapot Dome oil leases. While expressing every confidence in Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of Indiana Standard Oil, he said he totally disagreed with the position the colonel took in refusing to answer questions put to him by the committeemen.

now has or what she can possibly build in the future.

But I have undertaken to speak of this astounding fact not because of its financial burden to the tax payer, but because it is a crucial step toward changing our friendly way of dealing with our closest neighbor, to the old fighting way.

Let me mention three things which this sermon is not. It is not the word of an unconditional pacifist. You will bear me witness that I have never taken that ground. But it is the word of a peace-maker. Second it does not question the right or wisdom of a reasonable and adequate defense of the country. But it submits that the naval building program is monstrously excessive, especially when both President Coolidge and ex-Secretary Hughes have declared that there is upon the political horizon no likelihood visible of any nation attacking us, and when President Coolidge also said a little more than a year ago in his annual message to Congress, "When it is considered that no navy in the world, with one exception, approaches ours, and none surpasses it, it cannot be said that our country is neglecting its national defense."

Third, this sermon does not deal with the technical problem of comparative armaments.

It does maintain, however, that this naval policy proposed is calculated to change a friendly nation into a nation that fears us and hates us. It maintains too that this would be a relapse on America's part, in a time of profound peace between England and America, a relapse from the friendly way into the old fighting way of dealing with a neighbor.

Let me give most briefly a reason why this proposed action is calculated to change a great friendly nation into a hostile nation against us.

England cannot feed herself. She is absolutely dependent both in time of peace and war, upon getting the food her people eat from across the seas, often thousands of miles distant. In that she differs from us. We can feed ourselves and more. But her lines of over-seas commerce must be kept open and free, or starvation faces her and she is helpless. Therefore to make reasonably sure that she can keep these lanes of commerce open under all circumstances, has been the central plank of British policy for over three hundred years. It is the deepest instinct of the British people. We would doubtless feel the same way in their place. It is a matter of life and death with them. I am not speaking here to justify all that they have done with their sea-power. But any sane man can see why they will be touchy about it. You can guess how touchy our own people would be if our Monroe Doctrine were challenged or threatened. Surely, the British people will be twice as touchy about having their sea-power threatened. So it would seem only common sense, if America wants to remain friends with Britain, for us to take conciliatory, patient, friendly methods in making our defense and commerce secure upon the seas. John Bull is one of the hardest men on the planet to frighten. Germany tried it. One is far more likely to get what one wants with him by approaching him on the friendly side.

And not by talking to him as our Rear Admiral Plunkett did the other day over the shoulders of a National Republican club luncheon in New York city, when he said, "If I read history aright, we are nearer war today than ever before, because we are pursuing a competitive trade policy and crowding other nations into the background. A policy of this kind inevitably leads to war. I don't care whether it is with Great Britain or some other nation, you are going to have war."

His speech is a revelation of the professional navy man's psychology in any nation who thinks and acts and dreams in terms of runs and preparations for fighting. It is his business to do that, and we honor him for doing it well; but he is an unsafe adviser for determining the dominant policy of two friendly nations. The great mischief of it is, that these navy men are the ones who have persuaded the President to consent to this astonishing bill that is to be presented to Congress this week. In view of what President Coolidge has said repeatedly about international friendship and the adequacy of our national defense, it is reasonable to conclude that in this case his advisers are too strong for him. I believe that the American people are doing the President the greatest service by protesting against this bill and by urging Congress to seek further friendly disarmament conferences and treaties with England, before passing any such provocative and threatening legislation as this. For this bill can mean nothing less than a naval race with England extending over many years, a race like England's naval race with Germany twenty years ago, and with like inflammatory results on the fighting temper of both peoples.

Let us keep ever in the foreground of our minds that there are two Englands and two Americas. Always the better self of the nation which depends more on friendliness, justice and reason than on force and fighting, and the nation's lower self that depends most on force and fighting. (To make sense) we know that the Disarmament Conference last year accomplished nothing. But when the British delegation got back to England, they faced a volume of protest and criticism, first in the House of Commons where the government yielded so far as to explain that the Disarmament had temporarily failed to accomplish results. Then Lord Robert Cecil, a member of the British Cabinet resigned, and said publicly that it was because he believed that Britain could safeguard her interests by measures of mutual disarmament with America. And the Tory government is under fire repeatedly both in Parliament and with out, for not agreeing with America on measures of disarmament. Britain's better self, that is contending with her lower self. Then how unwise Admiral Plunkett's speech and (because actions speak louder than words) this bill now coming before our Congress. Ponder on the effect of these on the nerves and latent fighting spirit of the British people. Could any thing be more calculated to unite them against us under the fighting spirit of their admirals? The British people are slow to anger, slower than we are, though in other virtues they excel them. They will still confer with us how to combine justice and security with friendship. Let us petition our government to seek further for such conferences and treaties with them, as may secure these ends along the line of mutual disarmament.

For there are two Americans as well as to Englands: The America of the friendly way and the America of the old fighting way. There are thousands of Americans both in the army and navy and out of them, who agree with admiral Plunkett. They are pushing their propaganda through all the land.

Think what would happen here if this naval race were once begun and reports were being constantly brought to us by our navy department about the newer and bigger construction of the rival fleet. Think of the headlines, in the big newspapers, that have already been sowing among us suspicion and fear of neighbor nations. What would we do as the war spirals rose and flamed. What would our wild American buffoon, the mayor of Chicago do? When we think of him we do not know whether to laugh or to cry? I confess one is more inclined to cry when he ponders on how that man could win hundreds of thousands of voters to his banner for driving King George out of Chicago. If he could do this without vestige of ground for his charges, what would men like him accomplish, when a naval race for battle ships was on with England? The lower self of America! The old unreasoning fighting self. We may well be afraid of that and we are. We are not afraid of England. We have no reason to be afraid. We are richer, stronger and safer than she. And we have no reason to try to make her afraid of us.

But of the war passion we are afraid. Of War itself, war the futile, wild, insane thing that grows more destructive and suicidal every year, of war itself we are afraid. In the war of the future every one will lose. Both victor and vanquished will be impoverished, weakened and degraded.

And the time to speak against war is now, now in time of profound peace. Once the war spirit is aroused and the

Deputy County Clerk Wins Recognition As Perch Expert

Arrangements are being made by girls employed in the county courthouse to crown Miss Molly Pfeffer, deputy county clerk, as champion fisherwoman of the courthouse, a title she won Saturday afternoon in a contest at White Lake near Wausau.

Other participants in the contest were Miss Marge Foss, deputy register of deeds and Miss Myrtle Krantz, deputy assessor of incomes.

The prize winning catch was three (3) perch. The other girls could not even get a nibble. Miss Pfeffer said Monday she needed to catch only 27 more perch to reach the limit set by law but the other contestants were so disappointed when they found how far she was in the lead they refused to wait.

Marge and Myrtle said they wanted to get back to Appleton in time to go to work Monday morning and at the rate the champion was pulling them out they would have had to wait at least a week before she got the limit.

Rules of the contest provided that the girls put the bait on the hooks but as there were no judges present it is not definitely known whether they complied.

Disposition of the prize winning catch was quite a problem.

Sheriff Otto Zuehlke and County Clerk John E. Hantschel had estimated the girls would be unable to bag more than two fish and they each asked for one. John said he intended to have his man and he was going to hang it in his office. The third fish was still awaiting its fate Monday morning.

MENASHA DEBATERS TO MEET DEPERE ON HOME FLOOR FEB. 15

Contest in Accordance With Plans of the Wisconsin Forensic Association

Menasha—In accordance with plans of the Wisconsin Forensic Association, the first of two series of debates for the Menasha high school will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the high school assembly room when the negative team from DePere will meet with the affirmative team of the local high school. Since a dual debate has been arranged for the same evening, the Menasha high negative team will journey to DePere and debate the same question.

The question for debate this year is one of general interest and well within the scope of the public. "Resolved, That Wisconsin should enact a law requiring automobile owners to carry personal liability insurance in an amount of not less than $5,000, unless they establish and maintain evidence showing financial ability to respond in damages to the extent of $5,000."

The debate squad consisting of Elizabeth Plowright, Lucille Schwartz, John Anderson and Allen Adams on the affirmative and Phillip Vandenberg, Gerald Ahrens, Harry Lenas and Lauretta Stein on the negative, is in charge of Ray Fink of the local faculty.

A small admission will be charged in order to defray expenses of the team to DePere and the cost of the judges.

The Blazing Horizon

THE STORY THUS FAR
The story is told in the Indian territory and along the Kansas border in the '90s when a fight was being waged for the opening of Oklahoma to settlement. Chief characters are:
TONY HARRISON, orphaned at 13 when his father was shot in a poker game;
PAWNEE BILL, adventurer, teacher, Indian interpreter, showman;
the Bar K ranch to live;
RITA, his daughter.
The boy grows up on the ranch and learns the cowboy's trade. When Rita and her mother depart for the east he learns for the first time how much he cares for the red haired, arrogant beauty.
JOE CRAIG, who takes Tony to the Bar K ranch to live;
He tries to forget Rita Moore and accompanies Pawnee Bill and BUFFALO BILL on a wild west show tour. After many adventures he returns; but Rita comes back for a visit and he is unable to keep from declaring his love for her. When she tearfully admits she is engaged to another, he leaves the ranch and disappears.
When Pawnee Bill organizes his own wild west show, Tony goes with it, but it has an unsuccessful season and when Pawnee Bill gets a letter from the Wichita chamber of commerce asking him to lead the "Boomers" into Oklahoma, he accepts.

CAPTER XXXVIII
"You seem to be pretty well posted on this Oklahoma situation," remarked Tony Harrison.
He and Pawnee Bill sat opposite each other in a day coach, two hours away from Wichita, a map spread out on their knees. Their clothes were in wrinkles and full of cinders; they were dirty and tired from two sleepless nights in the uncomfortable seats. But Pawnee Bill, who had been beyond their means. The Wichita Chamber of Commerce would welcome two paupers.
Pawnee Bill chewed at an unlighted cigar. "I've studied it some, Tony," he said. "This district here in the heart of the territory—tracing with a forefinger—is the part that's called Oklahoma. You know that. It's part of the tract that was ceded to the United States government by the Creeks and Seminoles back in 1866. You'll notice it's bounded on the north by the Cherokee Strip; on the south by the Chickasaw Nation; on the east by the Sac and Fox reservation, and on the west by the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservations. It's a hundred and twenty-five miles long and from fifty to a hundred and sixteen miles wide, depending on where you cross it. It contains about two million acres—1,387,300, to be exact."
"Of unassigned lands," Tony Harrison murmured.
"Exactly. That portion is Oklahoma proper. It's getting so now they're calling the whole territory Oklahoma, but for our purposes we'll just use the name in connection with this area were trying to open."
"Oklahoma," he went on. "is an Indian name meaning beautiful land. It was the name proposed for the Indian country by the Creek radicals when the Indian tribes should have become a people and their hunting grounds a state, of course, it didn't work out that way." He smiled and chewed some more on his cigar.
Tony fixed his gaze on a hole in the top of the older man's wide-brimmed hat. "Better crease that so the hole won't show," he suggested. "until you can afford to buy a new one. The heels of your boots are sort of run down, too," he said critically.
"I know it," admitted Pawnee Bill ruefully and laughed. "Wonder what they'd think if they knew what a complete bankrupt I was?"
Tony shifted in his seat to study the fitting landscape. "What I don't understand," he said presently, "is how the Chamber of Commerce of Wichita expects you to take the Boomers in and keep them there. They've tried it before—under Payne and Couch—but they've always been run out by the soldiers. I don't see how this is going to be any different."

"I'll admit that's something that's got to be worked out," said the other. "I expect it's up to me to find some way, or they wouldn't have sent for me."
"Another thing; what's Wichita's interest in this?"
"Well, there's no trick in answering that. Wichita regards itself as the rival of Kansas City. It's ambitious and just naturally wants to spread out. Wichita wants Oklahoma opened because it wants the southwest trade," Tony nodded. "I understand. It all comes back to one question of how you're going to lead a flock of settlers into the Promised Land and keep them there."
"There's one other question," Pawnee Bill said with a frown. "Just why did they pick on me for the job?"
"I can answer that. My good friend Pawnee Bill, Indian interpreter, pioneer, showman, is a figure of some importance despite his present embarrassed financial condition. The business men of Wichita want a leader who will command the confidence of the people and who has the nerve to force things to a showdown." He ended with an elaborate gesture of the hand and Pawnee Bill reddened and twirled his flowing mustache.
The Cherokee Strip cattlemen, of whom my respected friend 'Tus Moore is one," the older man said presently, "have been the stumbling block in the path of the advocates of free land. Without them and their lobby, Oklahoma would be settled today. I hope," he added gently, having noticed Tony frown at mention of Tus Moore, "you won't think I have anything against him. Still, they've been selfish—the whole lot of them."
"Not an uncommon trait in humans, Bill."
"Admitted. You and I in their shoes maybe would be doing the same thing. Some of my best friends being among the Strip cattlemen. It's going to be right funny to declare open war on them."
They rode for many miles without another word between them. Nearing the outskirts of Wichita, Pawnee Bill pressed his nose against the pane and motioned for Tony's attention.
"Recognize those, Tony?" and he pointed.
In the distance lay a line of tents and wagons, many of the latter the covered schooner wagons of the pioneers.
"Boomers," said Tony. "They're here, too are they?"
"Optimists," breathed Pawnee Bill. "It's the same in half a dozen Kansas cities. They came here—some as far back as four years ago—and when they couldn't enter the Promised Land they just stayed put and waited. I wonder how much longer they'll have to wait—these and their brethren in Caldwell, Hunnewell, Arkansas City."
The train's speed slackened. He got up from his seat to ease his cramped joints, stretched wearily and hauled down the little grip from the overhead rack.
"Just about there, Tony."
"One thing's got to be understood between us," said the younger man. "I'm fading into the background tonight. They'll be throwing a banquet in your honor and there'll be speeches and a lot of pow-wow-ing, but I won't be there."
Pawnee Bill groaned at the thought of the speech that would be expected of him. "Better come Tony. I'll need your support."
"Nothing doing. I'll meet you some place afterward."

"All right. In the lobby of the Delmonico Hotel."
They were entering the long train shed now. Tony Harrison threw open a window and peered ahead into the gloom. "Reception committee and everything," he grinned. "Looks like a million people waiting to welcome you, Bill."
"Oh Lord," the other sighed weakly and stuck out his own head. "There's Oklahoma Harry Hill," he said, "and George Dixon, and Joe Rich, the money lender. Who that man is in front I don't know, unless it's the mayor. I'll be glad when this night's over."
The train stopped and there was a shout from many voices, the blaring of a band. As Pawnee Bill emerged from the train Tony remained discreetly in the back ground and saw his friend swept from his feet and into the center of a clamorous group. He watched him as he was led up to a dignified man, with whom he shook hands, saw him vanish into the crowd and followed the throng to the street. There Pawnee Bill was helped into a landau. He turned once to wave and Tony caught his eye. Then he was carried away.
"Where can I find the Delmonico Hotel?" the young man inquired of a bystander.
The man grinned and jerked a thumb. "Just follow the parade. That's where they're headed for."
"Thanks." He trudged on, lugging his battered suitcase. He felt very much in need of a bath and a shave and wondered if he dared register at the Delmonico without the price of a room in his pocket. He resolved to take a chance—Pawnee Bill would come to his rescue later.
It was dark when he had finished his toilet. He ate leisurely and rose from the table with a quarter in his pocket and nothing to jingle against it.
As he walked dilly through the streets he noticed pictures of the serious-eyed David Payne in many windows. There were flags about, and banners—evidently the committee had done things up in style.
He smiled. At that moment Pawnee Bill would be sitting at the formal banquet in the Delmonico. Or, perhaps shifting uneasily from one foot to another as he responded to the speeches of welcome.
There were groups at every street corner. He lingered at one, where a larger crowd than usual was being held by the impassioned oratory of a curbside speaker. He caught snatches of his talk—"Oppression... a cowardly government... we ought to go in by force and defy them to run us out."
Curiosity drew him nearer. He wanted to know how the man in the street felt about it and he studied the faces of the listeners. Evidently they were in thorough accord with the speaker, for they interrupted him periodically with shouts of approval.
"And Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado," the man was saying passionately, "are settled on the north, and Texas on the south. But the march of civilization has been deflected at the borders of the Indian country. Are we to stand idly by and see a few cattlemen grow richer every day on land that belongs to the people? Are we?"

"No." The answer was hurled back at him by many voices.
Tony Harrison moved on, his forehead puckered in a worried frown. With this kind of sentiment, it would indeed be a serious situation if they invaded the territory.
The soldiers can't run them out again without blood being spilled," he said aloud. "I wonder how Pawnee Bill will manage it. If ever a man had a tough job, he has."
(To Be Continued)

Many of the Boomers, faced with a cruel winter become discouraged. The Springer bill is introduced in Congress and Pawnee Bill is hopeful.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF HISTORY

The road of the historian has never been a very easy one, but just recently it has become downright tough, and getting tougher.

After the English attempt to corrupt the minds of our youth was exposed by Chicago's mayor it was thought that a new history could be prepared, simple, straightforward and pleasing to all; and so, under the guiding hand of a politician turned historian, a supplement termed "America First" was prepared to be used in the Chicago schools which stated of itself that it was "embodying the true fundamentals and facts that made possible the Declaration of Independence, the constitution and the policies laid down by George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and the presidents who succeeded them." But now another furor has arisen for this new book has designated Count Casimir Pulaski, the intrepid warrior who came across three thousand miles of stormy seas to help the struggling colonies, as a Lithuanian, a statement that the Polish Welfare association refuses to permit to stand unchallenged. This association has gone further and made a demand that the new book be withdrawn from circulation at once. There are ten thousands of Polish votes in Chicago, so you can make your own guess as to whether or not there is trouble brewing. But that is not all. The new book has also designated General Thaddeus Kosciuszko, another of Washington's able assistants, as a Pole which the Lithuanians denounce as mistaken, wrongful and entirely erroneous, asserting that historians have repeatedly established the fact that Kosciuszko was of Lithuanian nationality. A Lithuanian delegation therefore called upon Mayor Thompson with grim visages and flashing eyes, and there is quite some Lithuanian vote in Chicago too.

Mayor Thompson, being an entirely practical man, will treat these matters no doubt in a modern and practical manner. He will take down his compendium showing the ancestry of Chicago voters and decide the questions presented upon the true basis—the only proper basis—who can deliver the votes.

And still the troubles for this new history are not entirely over. Leaders of Italian birth have scanned the text from beginning to end and raged and stormed around the room, for, would you believe it, no mention is made whatever of any Italian in connection with the development of this great nation. This, of course, is a fatal oversight for there is more than one district known as Little Italy in Chicago where the voters have stood so manfully back of Thompson. What base ingratitude, indeed! It would seem perfectly safe to state emphatically in the history that Columbus was an Italian and set to rest all Spanish claims because the Spanish vote in Chicago is just about as negligible as the English. The odds are three to one that Mayor Thompson fires the new historian for all these blunders, and who can blame him? History must be right at any cost. Big Bill will have to sit down and write the cussed thing himself.

BANNING WAR

Without a dissenting vote, we read, the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War has endorsed a resolution to prohibit the sale of firearms to any country defined as an aggressor warring nation. The withholding of arms from nations that shall have violated arbitration treaties is one of the practical means of preventing war, in the words of Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan of Washington, one of the members of the conference, which convened in the nation's capital.

Similar suggestions have been advanced before. There is little doubt that a shutting off of the arms supply would be an effective measure for limiting the operation of troops of a belligerent power, but whether such a ban would serve as a deterrent to war, the prime interest, is another matter. It is likely not. Nations blinded by patriotic fervor are going to fight with their bare fists, if necessary. The cure of war lies in the education of the world's people to a plane where war's folly and destruction and horror is brought out so forcibly that the canker itself can be removed.

OUR GOLD SUPPLY

The United States rules the price levels of the world, according to Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the Exchequer of England and now chairman of the Midland bank. Mr. McKenna says that the world is now on a dollar standard, that while the value of gold used to govern the value of the dollar, today the value of the dollar determines the value of gold. Inasmuch as the rest of the world has brought up its currencies to the gold standard, the gold is dependent upon what value the American Federal Reserve banks choose to set upon it.

This power to rule price levels has passed into the hands of the United States, says Mr. McKenna, because the Federal Reserve banks have discovered how gold can be retained as a medium for making international payments but can nevertheless be deprived of its function as the ultimate standard of value. America is able to control the world price level because of two conditions. In the first place, her gold stock is so great that she can afford to lose large quantities without risk of the reserves falling below the legal minimum, and in the second place, her central banking system can absorb large quantities of gold at the same time depriving it of credit-creating powers. In a word, America is now rich enough either to lose gold or to gain it. She now holds half of the total monetary gold of the world. Moreover, her creditor position creates a permanent magnet for gold in which creditors must pay if they cannot pay otherwise.

This opinion, coming from such a source, is of especial interest and significance. Mr. McKenna's conclusion is also significant, and should serve as a warning to America. "The only condition under which America might be drained of her gold surplus is that she would make foreign loans in excess of her capacity."

AN ECONOMIC LOSS

Employers should heed the warning that the growing tendency to discard workers at an increasingly early age is a very serious matter, decidedly unfair to the worker and a distinct economic loss to society. The warning is sounded by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis who told an assemblage of 3,000 veteran employees of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company that a man or woman is just as capable a worker at fifty or sixty as at thirty, and perhaps more capable, even physically.

Science has added years to the span of human life. Today no one feels old at any age. We have not only abolished the feeling of old age, but people are healthier. And the years bring the reward of experience and added skill. Instead of becoming a disability at fifty or sixty, the intelligent worker is all the more an asset to his employer. Thomas A. Edison at eighty-one, George F. Baker at eighty-eight, and Chauncey M. Depew at ninety-three are fine examples of what can be done by men who have reached twice the age that is now accepted as the proper one at which to place a worker in the discard. They are still accomplishing as much and more than their juniors by many years and are still going strong.

Notwithstanding that both science and a better mode of living tend to abolish age and keep us young and even more productive, there is a tendency among employers to drop good workers at an even younger age. This tendency is serious and every effort should be made to arrest it. Through its evil influence skilled and experienced workers are deprived of a means to earn a livelihood while they are still in the prime of life, and industry is robbed of the benefits of that skill and experience.

The boyish figure must go, according to dictates from Paris. What the next figure shall be is not definitely assured, but dad hopes it won't come any higher.

AN OUTLINE OF HYGIENE

Says Bertrand Russell in his "Philosophy" (W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., New York):

"A child learns to understand words exactly as he learns any other process of bodily association. If you always say 'bottle' when you give a child his bottle, he presently reacts to the word 'bottle' within limits, as he formerly reacted to the bottle."

Ever try to teach a dog anything? At first, if you're kinda dumb, you'll be discouraged. The dog is so very dumb. That's the way you explain your failure. Truth is, you have to know more than the dog in order to teach him anything.

Now if you know just a little, in a scientific way, you will find it easy and rather enjoyable to teach or train your dog, cat or other animal.

The essential thing for you to know is the meaning of "conditioned reflexes." Dr. I. P. Pavlov, famous Russian physiologist, gives this explanation of a conditioned reflex:

"Food stimulates the food reaction, which consists of some movements of the animal and secretion. If some different agent, which previously had nothing in common with feeding, is repeated many times with the feeding of the dog, after a time it begins to stimulate the food reaction when used alone. If we produce some distinct musical sound, for instance, at a given rate of frequency of vibration per second—and always at the same time feed the dog, after a while this sound used alone, will produce the same food reaction as the food itself."

I believe successful husband controllers and champion hog callers understand instinctively about conditioned reflexes.

Pavlov has proved that conditioned reflexes are inherited. In his laboratory successive generations of white mice have been trained to respond to an electric bell which means dinner time. The first generation required 300 lessons—that is, the ringing of the bell was combined with the feeding of the mice 300 times before they learned to run to the feeding place when they heard the bell. The second generation required only 100 lessons. The third generation required 30 lessons. The fourth generation required 10 lessons. The fifth generation required five lessons. The sixth generation...

Like every good story, this had to be a continued one. Pavlov said he would test the sixth generation on his return from America, but he thought it very probable that in due time there would come a generation of the white mice that would run to the feeding place on hearing the dinner bell, without previous lesson.

Instincts are probably only inherited conditioned reflexes.

If you grasp the meaning of "conditioned reflexes," you become a competent animal trainer offhand. You know more than the dog, so you can teach him to behave in a mannerly fashion and to do a repertoire of tricks if you have the patience, kindness and honesty to fit you for the job of teacher or trainer. It is of course important never to fool or deceive the animal you are trying to teach—whether it is a baby or child, in which case the educationists still countenance the most shameful trickery and deception. Wild and frightful boggy yarns, fairy tales, storks, myths, giants, hobgoblins, demons of the darkness, raging beasts, etc., may have their place in the education of the human young, but don't practice any such hokum on the dog if you want to make an intelligent and useful animal out of him.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I am 26 years old, five feet and three inches tall, and weigh 140 pounds in light clothing. I have a chart which says I should weigh only 132 pounds. (Mrs. E. H.)

Answer—You might present the chart to some poor girl. It is a very old fashioned chart. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the Brady Symphony—it is good for that fat feeling.

Cause and Effect

I have Ben Tolt, by severing the brain and would like to hear your views regarding same. (Mrs. K. W. F.)

Answer—I think it is rather the other way around, the mental frailty causes the victim to bleed the hair.

Skate and Keep Well

I am a girl 18 years old and have been accustomed to a great deal of exercise all my life. Would roller skating in a public rink injure or benefit my health? (C. H.)

Answer—So far as the skating is concerned, as an exercise and a sport, it benefits anybody's health. But the hygienic or sanitary conditions in a public rink may not be beneficial.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

A STORY OF 24,000 YEARS

Former Governor Chase S. Osborn of Michigan has come before the public with another book under the title, "The Earth Upsets." Two of his other books, "The Iron Hunter" and "Madagascar," were described in this column a few years ago when they appeared. "The Earth Upsets" is as different from them as day from night and yet in some respects it is as like them as two puppies in a litter.

For one thing, it could not have been written by any person on earth except Chase S. Osborn. There is not mere individuality in it, the individuality is challenging. Osborn is in every line, as he was in "The Iron Hunter" and "Madagascar." Though the subject is scientific, there is in the book nothing of the alleged impersonality of science. The juice of the writer oozes out of nearly every word.

Personally I value the book chiefly on that account. I am too ignorant to know whether the earth actually upsets, turning over from pole to pole once every 24,000 years or not. There is quite a bit of matter in the book dealing with things I have never heard of before and that I probably couldn't understand if I gave the rest of my days to them. My knowledge of geology is so limited that it would be completely impossible for me to decide whether Osborn is right or whether some of the scientists he refutes are right or whether both are wrong.

The point I am trying to make is that if the book were strictly impersonal science it would be a dead loss so far as I am concerned. But with Osborn himself in it, it is an adventure of the first water even to a person as ignorant on the subject as I am. Human personality is always exciting. I get the same artistic pleasure out of this scientific treatise that I get out of excellent character drawing and incidental, but all the more telling for that reason. I believe any other fairly intelligent reader can get the same pleasure out of it that I did, even if he cares nothing about the subject itself.

Baldly and inadequately stated, Mr. Osborn's thesis is that the earth is tipping over from pole to pole at the rate of about a mile a year. The circumference of the earth being roughly 24,000 miles, it takes the earth half a century to complete a revolution in that way. What are now the north and south poles were once equator and will gain by equator at some time. Which means of course that then the present equator will be covered with ice.

The practical drift of the theory? The explanation of many movements of the earth's crust that are not to be explained in any other way. Earthquakes particularly. As the earth slowly tips over, the looser portions of the crust readjust themselves. If men happen to have built cities on those portions they are out of luck. The earth ball in its inexorable movement is completely unconscious of the life on its surface. It tips over because it is its nature to tip over. Life must adjust itself to it to life. Life must take its chances. The day may come many thousands of years hence when the earth crust shall have become so settled and fixed that the tipping over of the earth will not cause the crust to be shaken up. But this will probably be so far in the future that you and I won't notice the change.

Much of the book is given over to descriptions of things that can be explained by the earth's tipping over, but the case of earthquakes is typical of them all.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director Washington D. C. Q. What is the longest solo flight ever made by airplane? A. G. M.

A. On September 1 through September 28, 1927, Lieut. R. R. Bentley of the South African Air Force flew from London, England, to Cape Town, South Africa, thus completing the longest solo flight ever made. The Moth plane which he used was standard in every respect with the exception of enlarged petrol tanks.

Q. Who keeps the flame burning on the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier? What fuel is used? A. S. C.

A. The association known as "La Flamme sous l'Arc de Triomphe" was founded in 1923 with a view of maintaining in proper order the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and to quicken the flame thereon every evening. There are 517 ex-soldiers' associations belonging to this organization. A committee of 30 members presided over by General Gouraud makes up the schedule of associations and allots to each its special day for quickening the flame. The fuel employed is gas. This organization is in no way official. The ex-soldiers have preferred to remain completely independent and the guardian of the tomb is paid and his clothes provided by the Committee.

Q. How high up on mountains is there snow the year around? J. K.

A. Ice and snow are found on high mountains the year around above what is known as the snow line. The snow line is the line showing the limit of perpetual snow, varying with the climate in different parts of the world, but situated at approximately 1000 feet above sea level at latitude 70 degrees; 5100 feet at 60 degrees; 6800 feet at 50 degrees and from 16,000 to 17,000 feet at the equator.

Q. Did King Alfred of England lead a Crusade to the Holy Land? L. M. R.

A. King Alfred of England did not take part in the Crusades. He reigned from 871 to 901, long before the Crusades began. Richard I, King of England, went on several Crusades beginning in 1191.

Q. What kind of sand is fire sand? E. E. S.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Stranded upon this island on the eastern rim of the continent, New Yorkers are forever accused of being completely out of touch with conditions and life in the rest of the country.

The other day a young lady, who has been eminently successful as a writer of fiction serials, returned from a two-month visit with relatives in Des Moines, Kansas City and way points.

She burst in on me with a heated "The rest of the country could be starving to death and you wouldn't know it! You sit there and write about modes and manners of Manhattan, without the slightest idea of what will interest the people out there. You take it for granted, for instance, that people elsewhere are interested in prohibition. They're forgotten what a drink is out there. They don't care one way or another."

"As for smoking—well, I've had one cigarette since I left. Girls in polite society don't smoke out there—at least not in public. Had I smoked at home, it merely would have caused an unpleasant scene. I never so much as heard of a cocktail stand when I was asked to talk about New York. It was with the furthest sense that I would tell something shocking. People still look upon going to New York as being associated with kicking out the lights and visiting the wicked big city. I was called upon for a speech, and when I asked for a topic suggestion they told me to tell them about Greenwich Village. Now what can I tell them? I've lived in the Village for two years and I've never seen anything to make speeches about unless it be that the Village must have changed, since I can't find any of the things people expect to hear about. Why don't you enlighten the people out there?"

I don't know just what I can do about it that I haven't done. People don't want to be disillusioned. If they want to think that New York is the way they think it is, I don't see just what I can do. I mean, I know that, week in and week out, I have written the dirge of a Greenwich Village that has gone, never to return. I have told of the skyscrapers that rise where studio garrets once flourished. I have confessed that we, in New York, become as provincialized by our island isolation as the folks of the hinterland become provincialized by rural isolation.

I know that some of our heaviest girl smokers come from Kansas, Iowa and way-points. And I've helped pour more than one young lady from the corn belt into a taxicab after too many cocktails. I can't go out there and teach them to smoke and to shake an "orange blossom." They can smoke or leave it alone, insofar as I am concerned. I have no desire to fashion the rest of the world after Manhattan. One's tastes are so much a matter of the circumstances of life all around. When in Rome one does not need to become a Fascist, but it's more comfortable!

And again, week upon week, I've tried to show that above and beyond all the bluff and fuss and fury recorded about this city, there continues to rise a giant whose shadow now falls over all the world. Whether our New York girls are good, bad or indifferent, whether we drink too many cocktails and undress our chorines and run our night clubs, are more or less unimportant—though alluring—sidelights.

What thrills me, and what should thrill all who are not blind is that here on our eastern coast rises the strangest metropolitan experiment of all time. Here is a monument to strength and young ideas and power and gold and materialism and brains and brawn and the groping vitality of a new world! Steel and stone are its symbols and man is relegated to his anti-like place in the scheme—just as the soil and the corn are symbols of my friend's homeland. The rest is just part of the pageant that passes in the foreground!

manufacture of fire brick, for linings furnaces and for making molds and other refractory products.

Q. What kind of a fish is the skink-back? A. W. D.

A. This is a local name in the Mississippi Valley for a fish, one of the most common of the carp suckers (Carpodius syriacus), other wise known as sailfin, quillback, etc.

WORK WON'T KILL; WORRY WILL

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE American heart! That's the thing that puzzles the health dispensers now. We have a better chance of living than our grand parents—if our hearts hold out. But our hearts aren't holding out, that's the trouble. And it is becoming the great American mystery. Why?

The specialist marks you over with blue chalk like a gear of hop-scotch, listens, shakes his head, and remarks sternly, "You have been running up all the hills on high. Take it easy, shift your gears, and don't work so hard."

But nobody with fixed habits ever listens to him, and by the time we need heart specialists we usually have fixed habits. But it is bad business. We must listen and we must shift gears or the old bus is going to the scrap heap.

But all bad hearts are not caused by overwork or by burning the candle at both ends. The chief contributing cause of nerve and consequent heart trouble is worry. The old adage "Work doesn't kill but worry will" was never as true as in the year of Our Lord 1928. We worry more every month. We can't stop. It is a disease as progressive as tuberculosis.

A woman worried because she thought she had a malignant growth. It looked indeed as though she had. At last an operation proved it to be only a small tumor and she recovered her health completely. Did she stop worrying? It wasn't a month until DINNER—Oyster cocktails, ham baked in milk, buttered cauliflower, apple fruit salad, lettuce pie, milk, coffee.

Nickel pie is unusual and very good. Just at this time of year many housekeepers find their stock of canned fruits running low, with apples becoming scarce. So molasses pie will find a welcome when "pie thinner" is short.

MOLASSES PIE

One cup molasses, 2-3 cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 cup nut meats, 2 tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar.

Mix and sift flour and sugar. Add to molasses with lemon juice, melted butter, eggs beaten until very light and finely cut nut meats. Turn into a pie pan lined with plain, unbaked pastry and bake thirty to forty minutes in a moderate oven or until firm to the touch. Serve cold.

Women School Heads Prominent In Annual Session Of Superintendents

Boston — (AP) — Seven nationally-known women educators will take an important part in the annual meeting of superintendents of schools in Boston the week of February 26.

Headed by Miss Cornelia Adair, president of the National Education association and the first classroom teacher to be elected to that office, the women will take an active part in the program of 150,000 educators.

Miss Adair is a teacher of English in Bainbridge Junior high school, Richmond, Va., from which she was given a year's leave of absence during her tenure of office as president of the N. E. A. She formerly was treasurer of the organization. Supervision in the secondary school will be the topic of an address by Miss Adair.

Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, a veteran of the teaching profession and superintendent of schools in Los Angeles, Calif., will address the meeting on the relation of the public schools to higher education. The work of Mrs. Dorsey, whose picturesque little black-cloth figure with a large white shawl over the shoulders is a familiar one at educational conventions, is said to have resulted in a public school system in Los Angeles that has been unusually free of political friction.

The creation of a United States department of education has been the special, self-appointed task of Miss Charl Williams, former superintendent of schools in Shelby county (Memphis) Tennessee, former president of the N. E. A. and present legislative representative of the organization.

Miss Olive Jones, supervising principal of Public school 120, in the seat of New York's East Side, is chairman of the N. E. A. committee on behavior problem children. She has spent her life working with these problem children and during her presidency of the association in 1924 outlined its policy in regard to their treatment.

Miss Annie Woodward, a teacher in the Somerville, Mass., high school and president of the Massachusetts Teachers' federation, will figure prominently in the convention, as will also Miss Kate Wofford, first woman to be elected superintendent of a county school system in South Carolina.

Character education in the public school is the pet theory of Miss Mary McKimmon, who has been principal of the Pierce school in Brookline, Mass., since 1925, and who will be one of the speakers at the convention.

Miss McKimmon was president of the National Education association in 1926 where her program of "the challenge of childhood" was carried out with success.

SAINT AND SINNER

BY ANNE AUSTIN

Bob, waiting with drawn face and fear-darkened blue eyes outside the operating room, fell upon the white-coated, rubber-gloved doctor as soon as the door opened.

"Tell me, doctor! Don't waste words trying to break it gently! For God's sake, what's the matter with my wife? Will there have to be an operation?"

"Operation?" Dr. King raised astonished white eyebrows, then burst into a fear-dispelling chuckle of genuine mirth. "Who said anything about an operation, young man? The only thing that ails your wife is that she's going to have a baby."

Bob grinned foolishly, then passed a hand over his dazed eyes. "But, doctor, are you sure? I don't see how it could be—" We've been hoping and praying for a baby, but—

"I know, I know!" Dr. King interrupted jovially. "Nature plays tricks on us when sometimes, for Nature, being a female goddess, likes surprises. No doubt about it, Hathaway. You're going to be a father, if you take good care of your wife. Her condition explains a lot that's been puzzling me about her case. Women are apt to cut up funny didoes when a baby's on the way. You never can tell how a high-strung woman will react."

"Highstrung?" Bob repeated, still dazed. "But Faith's not a highstrung woman, Doctor. She's the most serene, well-balanced girl I ever knew. If it were Cherry I'd agree with you, but Faith—"

"Your sister-in-law isn't half as highstrung and nervous as your wife," Dr. King said with sudden seriousness. "You drop into my office sometime when you're in Darrow and let me tell you a few things for your own good and for your wife's protection, Hathaway. But I might as well tell you right now that Mrs. Hathaway is a bundle of nerves, under that calm exterior of hers. Of course she has not been so calm since I knew her but I can guess. I know her type. Your sister-in-law blows up every time she gets up a pound of steam, and you deduce from her many explosions that she's highstrung. You wife bottles it up, and seethes and boils in—"

BEAUTY HOW AND WHY

DARKENING THE PALE BROW AND LASH

Ann Aylis

A FRIEND of mine visited a beauty shop yesterday and while waiting for her treatment, was greatly interested in the preparation being made by one of the shop's patrons for a party to which she was going that evening.

Now my friend is an expert herself in the art of general make-up, but as she is blessed with dark brows and thick black lashes it is entirely unnecessary for her to improve upon Nature's job in that respect. But the lady she was watching was not so fortunate. Her eyes were blue and framed in rather scanty light brows and lashes. So light were they that her face was practically robbed of all expression.

My friend says that the beauty operator first of all used an eyebrow pencil to darken the characterless brows and that a few strokes of it and a little brushing soon made them things of beauty.

For the lashes, a pomade made of lamp black was brushed through with an upward movement. This was done with the utmost care so that none of the preparation would enter the eye. Then a small amount of blue cosmetic was rubbed into the lower eyelid, making an interesting shadow, and a faint line was drawn directly under the lower lashes, giving the effect of apparent thickness.

All this was done with consummate artistry and the result was beautiful to behold.

EVENING SMARTNESS

A new note gaining popularity in the smart world is the close-fitting evening cap. The hair is entirely covered by this one, of brown tulle, trimmed with rows of gold beads radiating from the back. A cluster of blue crystal leaves covers each ear.

BRITISH WRITER SAYS U. S. WOMEN ARE UNHAPPY

Aha, stark tragedy has us by the throat! All we American women are unhappy! So says a visiting English woman, Lady Drummond Hay. "American women are so restless and nervous," she says. "They may be happy, but the women of Europe are much more contented. It's curious that with all her luxuries and freedom the American woman is not poised and serene. As for ruling men, if she does, it's in a curious way — by bullying them. She could learn much about ruling her husband from the women of the Orient."

Well, about all one needs say is that it's interesting to see ourselves as others see us, and here's warning that we have several foreign sisters who would love the chance to be "unhappy" in the same way we are.

LACE'S IMPORTANCE
From lingerie to hats lace is chic this spring. The wood brown lace dinner gown is this season's smart innovation. One has a tiered skirt and scarf collar.

EVENING SLEEVES
Sport dresses and sleeves this spring but evening frocks are introducing tiny caps, scarfs and cape effects to give them short sleeves.

LACE FROCKS
Lace frocks are imperative in spring wardrobes. Warm colors, particularly deep pinks and purples, are very good. They usually have light foundations.

VELVETEEN COATS
The velveteen, collarless coat is smart for spring. A black one has raglan sleeves and quite a flare. It tops a parchment habutai dress.

Sometimes the lid blows off, and she goes to pieces. This time she had amnesia, but you can take my word for it that her collapse was largely due to her condition, which she didn't suspect. She's as much surprised as you are."

Bob paused only to wring the doctor's hand, then sprinted for the elevator, his handsome young face so glorified with joy that two nurses nudged each other and giggled.

In her bed again, Faith lay with her hands clasped over her heart, which was racing with joy. "The perfect solution," she told herself with prayerful gratitude. "Since I'm going to have a baby of my own, I can convince Cherry that I can live without her baby, and she will be free to marry Nils."

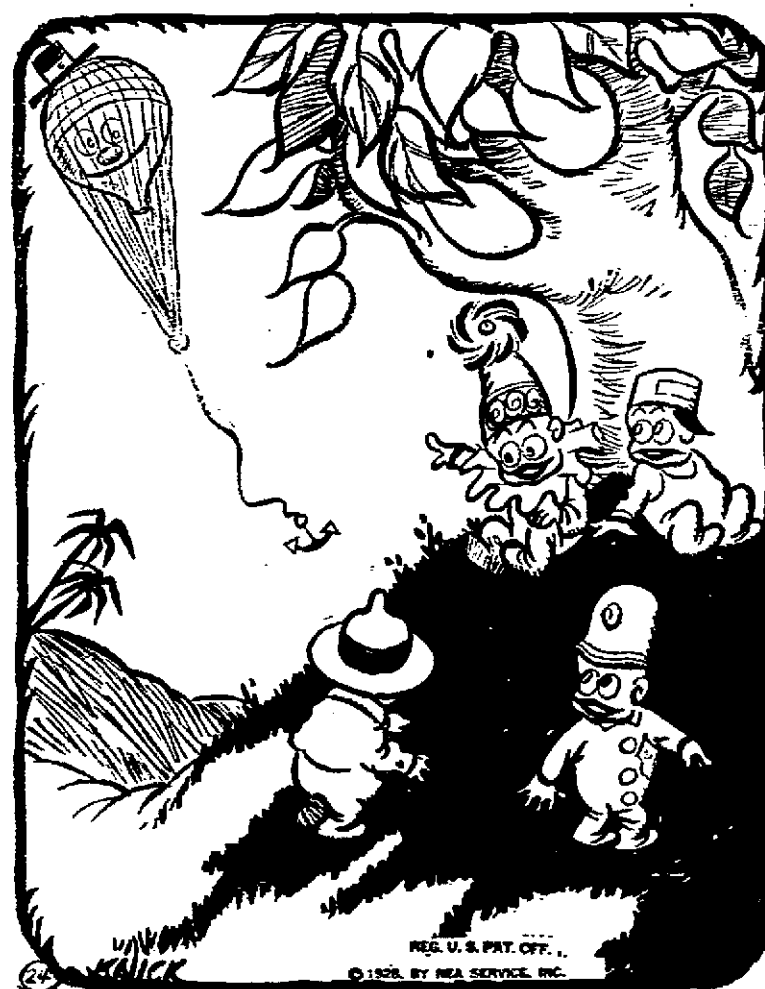

The door opened and Faith, expecting to see Bob, was extending her arms in welcome when she saw that her visitor was Cherry, a pale Cherry with circles under her lustreless golden eyes.

"I've written Nils his answer, darling. I've told him that I can't marry him because I don't love him. It was the truth, too," Cherry lied valiantly. I'm always getting excited over some man or other and then losing interest."

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

WE Clowny said, "I sady fear we'll have to leave our wagon here. Our friend the woods man took his dog and we are left alone. That means we'll miss a lot of fun. Was great to make that brave bound run. I only wish we had a dog that was our very own."

Then Coppy promptly said, "Oh, my there is no use to fret and sigh. Let's make the best of what we have and be a cheerful lot. If we just travel on with ease and find our way out of these trees, eventually we'll find another thrill, as like as not."

"I guess you're right," some body cried. "There's nothing gained if not a dog's friend." Then Scouty said, "I'll tell you what. I'll pull you for a while. Jump in our wagon mighty quick. I'll see if I can turn the trick. We'll all take turns at doing this and change 'bout every mile."

Into the wagon jumped the bunch and Scouty tried to work his hunch.

He tugged away, but had no luck. The task was much too tough. The Tinies watched him for a spell and then they heard poor Scouty yell, "It is no use. It can't be done. I am not strong enough."

So, out they jumped and Carpy cried, "Oh, well, we'll walk instead of ride." And down a path they started, just as happy as could be. "I guess we'd better realize that what we need is exercise." And then he pointed up, and said, "Do you see what I see?"

The others gazed up in the sky, and there were shouts of "Gee!" and "My!" "I told you," shouted Coppy, "and find something new real soon. Perhaps this is our lucky day. Just look. It's coming down this way."

And what the Tinies looked at was a funny, big balloon.

(The balloon carries the Tinymites away in the next story.)

GREEN VIKING QUINT FALLS BEFORE VETERAN PIONEERS

Sophs Show Promise In Early Stages Of Game But Lose To Classy Shooting

Remmel Leads Losers With Six Baskets as Carroll Triumphs, 31 to 20

Lawrence college basketball team lost another game Saturday, this time to Carroll 31 and 20. But mark this down on the inside of your hat band. Remmel wasn't built in a day and championship basketball teams aren't picked up in one season. If Denny can keep that aggregation of sophomores together for another year or two, they'll have a squad that will make things more than interesting for any team in the Midwest conference.

For nearly 15 minutes Saturday evening those sophomores looked like champions and more than one fan saw them trotting home with a victory. Carroll's veterans were not to be denied, however, and although they were shot after shot go wrong in the first part of the game they kept plugging away until they found the range—and hit.

"Zek," Remmel puffed off with individual honors for Lawrence, getting six field goals, four in the first half and two in the second. His mates played good enough ball with one exception, when handling free throws. Denny should have the whole gang wearing that little red necktie Monday for the terrible work they did Saturday night. The Vikings scored only two gift shots although Carroll had seven personals chalked against her.

Bizer, big Carroll guard, was the honor man on his squad playing a steady consistent game. It was a couple long tosses by this chap which brought Carroll into the lead late in the first half. In the second half Gluck, a forward, came to life and he tossed four goals from various places to put his name in a prominent place.

When hostilities opened Carroll took the lead on two free throws by Schultz, guard. Remmel then came along with his first field goal and loved a moment later with another. The Vikings, with a lead kept up a steady drive at the hoop, Remmel doing most of the work. With the score 11 and 6 in favor of the Blues, Carroll's long range shots started to find the net and when the gun ended the period the Pioneers led the field, 14 to 13.

As the second half opened Bizer again broke into the scoring column with a basket that gave indications of what could be expected during the remainder of the fracas. Remmel tossed a field goal for Lawrence in retaliation for Bizer's score but a few moments later Gluck, diminutive Carroll forward, came to life and wrought havoc the remainder of the game. Bizer the gun brought an end to his activities he had sunk four baskets to be aided by Bizer with two and Schultz and Kempthorne, one each.

The game was characterized by considerable hard playing and at times took on the aspect of a football game. Both Denny and Armstrong, Lawrence and Carroll coaches, respectively, protested the laxness of the officials who were possessed with a tendency to let the boys fight it out. Two Lawrence men were the nearest approach to casualties during the game. Pierce, twisting an ankle and Hoffman all but being knocked dizzy when he mixed with Bizer and was thrown to the floor.

PLAY MARQUETTE FIVE
Monday evening the Lawrentians seek revenge on Marquette for an early drubbing here, but the Milwaukeeans are favored to win, playing on the home court. The game here was close until the final stages when a Marquette point by several points. Most of the points were scored on ringers from midfloor and beyond and Marquette fans who witnessed the game expect another battle of accurate shots. Coach Denny probably will start Remmel at one forward and Rasmussen or Hoffman at the other with Jackola in reserve. At center will be Schneller with Hilton in reserve and at guard will be Slavic and Pierce with Voecks and St. Mitchell, who is practically recovered from a fractured wrist, in reserve.

LA CROSSE BEATS RIVER FALLS ON HOME COURT
River Falls—(P)—River Falls State Teachers college met its first defeat in two years on its own floor at the hands of LaCrosse Saturday night 37 to 31 in one of the fastest games ever played here.

The lead alternated one point throughout until the last few minutes of play when LaCrosse made three baskets. The half ended 18 to 17 in favor of LaCrosse.

Christiansen scored seven baskets for the visitors while Bud Mantion scored ten points for River Falls.

Madison—Six Wisconsin teams are facing a crucial week in their respective Western Conference schedules. Four of the Badger squads will tackle Big Ten opponents at home while the other two will travel for their Saturday games. All of the indoor teams will be busy on Saturday, while the hockey sextette plays their two matches on Thursday and Friday.

The Cardinal basketball five will play Harold Olson's Ohio State outfit in a return engagement at the armory gymnasium. Wisconsin trounced the Buckeyes at Columbus in the first game of the season, 30 to 13, but since that time the Ohio lineup has been altered considerably. The new combination has been scoring freely and has to its credit a victory over the strong Northwestern team.

Johann Farkuhak's pucksters take on Michigan here in their second conference series of the winter. The Wolverines were to have played in Madison the past week-end but soft ice made a postponement necessary. The Badgers are now at the top of the conference. They hope to strengthen their position by trimming the Maize and Blue in the last home stand of the year.

Illinois appears twice on Wisconsin's slate for this Saturday. While Coach Hitchcock's wrestlers are engaging the Illini matmen at Champaign the Orange and Blue swimmers will compete in a dual meet here with Wisconsin. After the swimming victory over Iowa in the last conference wrestling match, the Cardinal stock has soared. Hitchcock was dealt a hard blow, however, by the semester examinations when he lost Smith, Big Ten champ in the 115-pound class.

The Wisconsin swimmers are out to avenge the defeat handed them last Friday by Minnesota. Joe Steinhauser has a difficult task in replacing the half dozen casualties dealt him when the scholastic ax fell recently. Four sure point winners have fallen by the wayside. The Card coach is laboring overtime with several recruits to replace the ineligible.

Tom Jones' indoor track team is slated to uphold one end of the annual indoor quadrangle meet, which will be held at Patton gymnasium, Evanston, on Saturday. The Iowa gymnasts round out this week's activities with a meet here on Saturday. It will be the first home conference tilt for the Badgers.

RIPON CAGERS WHIP BELOIT FIVE, 29-20

Beloit—Ripon defeated Beloit in a Midwest conference game here Saturday night, 29 to 20. The visitors started fast and held a 21 to 9 lead at halftime. Capt. Halverson and Martin were the Ripon stars, while Bettino and Thonstenson topped Beloit.

SCANDINAVIANS TIE IN OLYMPIC SKATE TRIALS

St. Moritz, Switzerland—(P)—Two Scandinavian entrants tied for first Monday in the final classification of 500-meter speed skating of the winter olympic games. The competition was decided by the speed of contestants in the various heats not by their position at the finish.

EXPECT 1,200 FANS AT FOND DU LAC MITT SHOW
Fond du Lac—With a fair break in the weather, more than 1,200 Fox river valley fight fans will see Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis and Jackie Williams of Chicago, light heavyweights, clash in the 10-round main event of the American legion boxing show at Armory E. here Thursday night.

The heavy advance ticket sale for the show indicates that the bout between Wiggins and Williams is proving one of the most attractive offered in this section in recent years. Wiggins is a contender for the crown now worn by Tommy Loughran, while Williams has acted as a sparring partner for Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey and other champions and has an enviable record for a youngster.

The six-round semi-windup between Johnny Bush of Sheboygan and "Wildcat Jack" Murphy of Milwaukee, two of Wisconsin's most promising young middleweights, will top a card of preliminaries that forecasts an evening filled with action. The other prelims of four rounds each feature Johnny Coney of Fond du Lac vs Louis Stadler of Oshkosh and Lac vs Louis Stadler of Oshkosh at 142 pounds.

LA CROSSE BEATS RIVER FALLS ON HOME COURT
River Falls—(P)—River Falls State Teachers college met its first defeat in two years on its own floor at the hands of LaCrosse Saturday night 37 to 31 in one of the fastest games ever played here.

The lead alternated one point throughout until the last few minutes of play when LaCrosse made three baskets. The half ended 18 to 17 in favor of LaCrosse.

Christiansen scored seven baskets for the visitors while Bud Mantion scored ten points for River Falls.

Playing below their usual form the Weber Cozy Knits were able to furnish competition only in streaks for the Citizens Bank five in an Appleton Industrial-Commercial League basketball game Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and as a result lost to the Bankers, 26-21, also losing fourth place in the loop. The teams had been tied for the position before the game.

In the other league game the second-place Fox River crew swamped the Kaukauna Y. 37-11, after a close first half in which the Kawmen gave all signs of making a tough battle out of it for the Fox crew.

In the fourth-place game the teams battled evenly the first quarter but the Bankers pulled into a 7-3 lead at the half. In the final periods the trailing Webbers battled desperately, never giving up to the final whistle, and this made the game interesting to the end. Three times the losers pulled up to three points of the winners, but every time the Bankers matched a Weber basket with one of their own and they kept near the end to make it five points. Mirrored Weber guard, was removed from the game on personals on the final minutes, and Hovde, playing with a bad leg, had three fouls before the first period ended. The Bankers took the last half, 18-15.

Herb Voecks and Rube Schultz led the winners, the former scoring four baskets and a free throw and the latter three and an extra point. Many of their baskets were on hard tries or one-hand sweeps. Wally Voecks added three ringers and Conn, and McKenzie one each. For the losers Voecken was the heavy scorer with five baskets and three free throws for 13 of his team's 21 points. Gunderson added the rest of the points on four ringers.

In the opening game the Foxmen led 17-10 at the half but in the final period they came back to score 20 points to their foes' 11. Tornvold led his winners with eight baskets and four free throws for 20 points and Ber added four baskets and two free throws. For the losers, remaining points with three baskets. For the losers Stecker had three ringers and Bixel and Wenzel had a free throw.

One pair of Appleton bowlers, K. Koletzke and William Jacobson, rolled high in the Wisconsin State Bowling tournament at Madison Sunday morning and were in second place in the doubles for several hours. However, before the day was over the Appletonians were in third place and latest reports still have them in that position. They are sure to finish among the high money teams because of their scores. Jacobson had a game of 686 and Koletzke, 597. Had Jacobson's 686 come in the singles he would be in second place in the event.

GOLF MORE POPULAR IN BADGER HIGH SCHOOLS
Madison—(P)—Golf—over which the tired businessman and the youngster alike toll—is gaining farther recognition as a high school sport.

This was shown when the rules committee of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic association drew up a set of suggested regulations to cover golf play by its high school members. The committee, in its report on the suggested rules, says that it "suggests and urges that various conferences in the state make an effort to encourage and stimulate the spread of golf by conducting meets and by scheduling interscholastic matches between member schools. As soon as the active participation in this sport is distributed more uniformly over the state districts should be established and sectional tournaments held as a preliminary to the state tournament."

JACK LOCKWILL'S HELPING HAND

There was a jangling crash of glass as the desperate unknown flung himself bodily through the window. With almost equal swiftness, Lockwill dropped the sheet, reached the window and sprang out after the fugitive. After a moment, Sinnott wheeled, brushed the girls aside, and bounded down the stairs. He met Lockwill re-entering, a limp form in his arms.

"He was cut some by the glass, and stunned by the fall," Jack said, putting the fellow down on the floor. "Great Scott!" exclaimed Jerry, staring. "It's Custard Pie!"

Stooping, Lockwill rummaged Piper's pockets, and brought out wrist-watches, rings and other things. "He was making a fine haul," said Jack. "This clears you, Jerry."

WAUPACA COUNTY NEW LONDON-CLINTONVILLE-WAUPACA NEARBY TOWNS

POLITICAL PUT AT NEW LONDON BOILS WITH PRIMARY NEAR

Candidates Laying Back, Waiting for Opponents to Take the Lead

New London—With the final time for nomination papers to be signed for the spring elections only a short time away, few announcements have yet been made by present city officials. There is a most noticeable reticence surrounding the entire question and as one interested citizen relates "every possible candidate along with those who will probably be candidates for reelection are all waiting for the other man to make the first move."

It is there is any possibility of heated competition from any quarter it is likely to come from the race for office of city clerk. It is rumored that a number of candidates have quietly been estimating their chances for gaining this position. C. J. Thompson who for more than 14 years held the position of city clerk, and who resigned the late part of last year to assume charge of his business affairs, has been named by his friends as a candidate for election in opposition to John Freeman, whose appointment to fill Mr. Thompson's unexpired term will make him a candidate for election this year. Mr. Thompson, states, however, that he feels a hesitancy about running for the office of clerk unless others come out in the formal nomination.

It is expected that most of the regular regime of officials will come up for reelection. Mayor E. W. Wendland announced his candidacy for reelection on Saturday, stating that thus far he anticipated no opposition for the office. Treasurer L. M. Wright and the city assessor, A. W. Anderson will be in the running for reelection. This year's quota of aldermen whose terms expire this year, is understood to run again and James Thomas First ward, Matthew Clark, Second ward, Henry Knapstein, Third ward, Herman Ludwig, Fourth ward and Louis Schmalenberg in the Fifth ward.

Probably all supervisors will be candidates for reelection. Ike Poeple First ward, is chairman of the county board, M. H. Boland, H. R. Feurst in the Third, Jacob Werner in the Fourth and Andrew Runnoff in the Fourth ward comprise the present list.

Members of the board of education will no doubt offer their names to succeed themselves during the coming term of office. E. C. Jost, is commissioner at larger Dr. C. D. Hemmy, Dr. J. W. Monsted and Mrs. F. J. Priefer are the other members of this board.

WAUPACA CONCERN TO BUY UP AND RESTORE FERTILITY OF FARMS

Group of Businessmen Think Investment Will Pay Big Returns Later on

Waupaca—Three farms, comprising a total of 664 acres have been acquired by the Jardine Farms Company of Waupaca, an organization recently formed for the purpose of buying up and restoring to a productive state some of the run-down and neglected farms near Waupaca. These farms are of a sandy nature and were once desirable holdings but continuous cropping and lack of attention to maintaining fertility have resulted in their abandonment.

The farms will be worked as a unit in order to secure the most efficient use of machinery and labor. The program of reclamation to be followed will consist of liming first and then seeding to alfalfa. It is felt that five years from now these tracts will be in a condition that will warrant the all being taken over by real farmers.

At present their operation means an outlay of money with little chance of immediate returns. The ordinary farmer is not financially able and does not desire to take hold of such lands.

The venture of the Jardine Farms Company will be watched with interest and their success will have a bearing upon the disposition of other depleted farms in the vicinity. The rehabilitation of worn out sand farms is not new, however, as there are a few other places now yielding good returns that were community eyesores a few years ago.

J. F. Jardine, president of the A. M. Penney Potato Co., R. J. Crosscut, district manager of the Leonard, Crosscut and Riley Produce Co., and Charles O'Hara, president of the Northern Refrigeration Car Co. are the men making up the Jardine Farms Company. Mr. Jardine will have some management of the farms.

The city of Waupaca will install in a few days equipment to test automobile headlights. It is expected that all local auto owners will be compelled to have their lights examined to see that they comply with the law.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Richardson will entertain the Twentieth Century Bible Class at the parsonage Monday evening. Honey and hot biscuits are promised the men who attend. On Tuesday evening they will open their home to the members of the faculty of the public schools and their families. Hostesses for the evening are Misses Dorothy Richardson, Laura Shoemaker and Marion Sill.

Mrs. George McIlree of S. State-st. announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Annette, to James Roach, a later date a "Spary Day" and a "Dairy Day" will be held.

During the month of January 413 cows were on test, of which 193 were dry 13 cows were culled while 4 others were purchased. The association is credited with a total production during the month of 9,242 pounds of milk and 11,547 pounds of butter fat. Mr. Kasper states that next year it is planned to make this a two weeks course, as one week is too short a time in which to teach the course he has to offer.

W. A. Fell of Oshkosh, visited at the H. D. Wartman home on Friday.

Mrs. N. Albert Werbeck of Appleton has spent the week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Peterson of the city.

Through the efforts of A. N. Howalt, agricultural instructor of the Waupaca High School, plans are being made for a special "Potato Day" to be held in Waupaca early in March. An attempt was made to have other farmers institute held at that time but H. L. Luther, superintendent of farmers' institutes, has advised that it was impossible. The "Potato Day" at which emphasis will be laid on the improvement of seed stock, has been promoted as a substitute.

Professor John Brann of the College of Agriculture, county agent Murphy of Shawano county, farmers and potato dealers will be on the program. At a later date a "Spary Day" and a "Dairy Day" will be held.

VALLEY SCOUTS END ACTIVE WEEK WITH MOBILIZATION CALL

Members from Four Cities Assemble at City Hall in Less Than an Hour

Fifty-six minutes after Mayor Rule of Appleton had issued an emergency mobilization call Saturday afternoon, 239 Boy Scouts from Appleton, Neenah-Menasha and Kaukauna were assembled in front of the City Hall in Appleton.

The call, which was made by telephone, reached M. G. Clark, Valley Council Scout Executive, at exactly 12:30. It was a trial test, similar to those being conducted by 700 Scout councils throughout the country, the purpose being to determine how rapidly Scouts can be mobilized for service in case of tornado, flood, or other major disasters which might befall the city.

The various troops knew they would be called some time during Scout Anniversary Week and when the call had not come earlier in the week they naturally looked for it on Saturday.

Mayor Rule's orders called for mobilization at the City Hall and Scout Executive Clark immediately notified the Scout Master of each troop who called his two assistants, each assistant called two patrol leaders, each patrol leader called four members of his patrol and these four each called one other member. As each Scout made his call he raced away toward the City hall.

Three Scouts from Troop 1 of St. Joseph's church, Appleton were the first to arrive, five minutes after they were called, then came three from Troop 2 of the Methodist church. In 15 minutes, 25 were on the job. They arrived in groups of two, three, four, some on the run, others on bicycles with many carrying first aid kits, splints and bandages ready for service. Others carried flags. The first complete troop to mobilize was Troop 13 of the First English Lutheran church. Although a new Troop, in 20 minutes it had eight Scouts and three candidates on hand.

The first troop to arrive from outside of Appleton was Troop 3 of St. Thomas Episcopal church of the twin cities. Thirty-five minutes after being called "Spring Fever" the Troop's Ford Truck pulled in with 20 Scouts on board. Close on their heels came 12 Scouts from Troop 9 of the Menasha Woodmen's Co. in their truck. Five minutes later two other car loads from these troops pulled in. Troop 14, Menasha Congregational church, reported immediately after with 15 Scouts.

Following the emergency mobilization the scouts assembled in the auditorium of the Vocational school.

A program had been prepared for them by the Izaak Walton League, Chapter 1, of Appleton, and President Sykes of the League introduced the first speaker, Ben J. Rohan, Superintendent of Schools, who talked to the scouts on the value of forests and need for conservation.

One of the features of the meeting was awarding the degree of Honorary Tenderfoot Scout to Mr. Rohan by Mr. Clark who explained that this was in recognition of Mr. Rohan's recent work in writing a book on forestry and conservation which has been recognized as an outstanding piece of literature on the subject and because of his work in the various fields of vocational guidance in Appleton, things in which the scout movement is vitally interested. Mr. Rohan accepted the scouts oath and law as his daily guide in life just as the scouts before him received the award had done.

Following this H. A. Schlitz showed a two line reels covering the tragedies which took place in the early attempts to span the Atlantic by air and of Lindbergh's flight from the time of his take-off to his return to native soil.

Robert Skelton, Red Cross life saving instructor, gave demonstrations of artificial resuscitation which was followed by more moving pictures on floods, fish and wild life.

JUSTICE UPHOLDS GOVERNMENT PLEA

A brief in support of Stewart's effort to make permanent a writ of habeas corpus freeing him from arrest by the senate for refusing to answer questions asked by the oil committee.

The brief contended the senate was without power to arrest Stewart when he was at that time before a senate committee and under subpoena. The power of the senate was no greater than that of a court the brief said and contended that in court if a refusal to answer was ill founded the only allowable procedure was to order the witness to answer the questions and then punish him if he refused.

The power of the senate to compel a private individual to appear and testify is confined to cases where the information is essential to enable the senate efficiently to exercise a legislative function and "does not include the right to make general inquiry," the brief contended. It was argued that Stewart answered every question of public interest asked him and refused to reply only to those that dealt with private and personal matters. "The answers to which in no way could furnish the information essential to the efficient performance of any legislative function of the senate."

LINDY LEAVES CUBA FOR HOMEWARD FLIGHT

Hangars, Ambassador Judah and Mrs. Judah followed him in an automobile lighting the way.

He started from the polo field and as the plane sped over the bumpy ground, it passed close to one of the goal posts. Half way down the field he was in the air and rushing along just raised the plane to clear the hangars, the spectators and a large number of the Cuban flying corps cheered and threw their hats into the air.

For 15 minutes the sound of his motor was heard as he circled around apparently seeking his bearings. Lindbergh made a final circle over the field and gave three flashes of his signal lights in farewell.

Immediately after the take-off Captain Laborde, Lindbergh's Cuban aide, announced that he was worried as a strange rustling sound came from the plane.

But fears were soon dispelled, however, when a steady whir indicated that the motor was functioning properly.

After assurance of Lindbergh's safety was signalled to spectators the crowd started to melt away. The field was darkened. Another chapter had been added to the history of aviation and a new one begun.

WALSH PROPOSES TO REGISTER LOBBYISTS

Washington —(P)—Registration of lobbyists in Washington with the secretary of the senate would be required under an amendment to senate rules proposed Monday by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts.

The new rule would require all lobbyists to give their names, the legislation they propose to advocate and the names of the individuals, societies, corporations or other organizations by whom they are engaged. It was sent to the rules committee.

Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, suggested a more rule of the senate would not accomplish the purpose as it carried no penalty for failure to register. Senator Walsh replied that it provided that those who violated the provisions could be held before the bar of the senate.

"What we want is some means of finding out who forms this lobbying government surrounding us," Senator Walsh said. He added it was difficult to legislate on the subject.

METHODISTS LEAD IN SENATE, HOUSE WITH PRESBYTERIANS NEXT

Religions Pretty Well Divided and Some Are Without Affiliations

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—The Methodists and the Episcopalians could form a bloc to control the Senate, whereas at least four denominations would have to combine to form a majority in the House.

No one has suggested any such thing—it is just one of your correspondent's ideas, after applying some higher mathematics to a tabulation of the religious affiliations of Congress issued by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals.

Methodists lead the list in both House and Senate. Presbyterians second in the House and Episcopalians in the Senate. Here's the list:

HOUSE: 54 Methodists, 64 Presbyterians, 51 Episcopalians, 25 Congregationalists, 20 Christian Disciples, 16 Lutherans, 10 Jewish, 4 Unitarians, 3 Dutch Reformed, 3 Quakers and one each for the United Brethren, Mennonites, Christian Scientists and Episcopians.

SENATE: 32 Methodists, 24 Episcopalians, 8 Presbyterians, 7 Congregationalists, 6 Baptists, 3 Roman Catholics, 2 Unitarians, 2 Lutherans, 2 Mormons, a Christian Scientist and a Quaker.

Eleven congressmen are listed as Protestants, with denomination unknown, 24 congressmen and four senators unaffiliated with any church and 18 congressmen and one senator whose affiliation has not been ascertained.

There ought to be a law to allow politicians to repudiate anything they may have said more than two weeks back. Conditions change so, you know. Or, at least, a law to prohibit anyone from ever bringing up a politician's statement again once it's uttered and duly recorded.

For instance, certain mean persons insist on quoting Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania just at the time when he's devoting himself ardently and passionately to the task of saving the somewhat moth-eaten senatorial skin of William S. Vare.

"I couldn't vote for Mr. Vare because that would be too much to pay for a drink," said Senator Reed while he was helping the Mellon machine and its candidate, Senator Pepper, try vainly to beat Vare in the 1926 primaries.

KEPT THEM FIGHTING

And after the voters had turned down Mr. Pepper for Vare, Senator Reed said publicly that they had "voted like a lot of dunderheads."

For some time now, Senator Reed has been trying hard to get other senators to vote for Mr. Vare.

But isn't it mean to keep bringing up those old things?

Reed and his friends at least ought to be able to keep Pennsylvania from going to Al Smith next November. Some of the younger and more enthusiastic Tammany congressmen are trying hard to believe that Smith will get large majorities in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and so carry the state, but even the Pennsylvania Democrats don't seem to believe that. The big city political machinery is too firmly imbedded. There isn't, according to latest reports, any particular cohesion among Pennsylvania Democrats.

When Boies Penrose was boss of the state, he once said: "I don't have any trouble with the Republicans. My job is to keep the Democrats fighting among themselves."

Incidentally, that's a job in which Republicans generally are supposed to be interested in this year of grace, 1928.

ASSOCIATIONS HELP CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Madison—(P)—Many organizations and individuals have contributed to the membership campaign of the Wisconsin Association for Crippled Children, according to Miss Marguerite Lison, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Association for Disabled.

The service which can be rendered crippled children will depend largely upon the financial support given this work," Miss Lison declared. "Any help which may be given in interested organizations in supporting this movement will aid this association to obtain care and education for these handicapped children."

Organizations which have sent in memberships during the past month are the Kiwanis clubs of Manitowish, Sheboygan, and Madison. The Lion's club of Sheboygan, and the Optimist club of Kenosha. The Kenosha Kiwanis sent in 50 individual memberships.

Special classes for crippled children were recently opened in Madison and La Crosse. Some of these children have never been at school and others not for several years.

CONSERVATION WARDENS WILL ATTEND MEETING

Plans for holding a meeting of all conservation wardens in the state at Madison during the latter part of February are being made at the capital city and wardens are to be notified of the dates soon. Louis Jeske is the game warden in this district.

The meeting is to be held for the purpose of going over all the laws pertaining to the warden's work and going into some of the new laws thoroughly.

WILLIAMS ADVERTISES FOR SIDEWALK BIDS

Sealed bids for furnishing labor and material and construction of cement sidewalks in Appleton during the season of 1928 have been advertised for by E. L. Williams, city clerk. The bids will be received up to 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, March 7. They will be presented to the common council at the meeting that night. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for $100.

Europe's Spinster Princesses Not Looking For Husbands Just Because It's Leap Year

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—It looks like another lean year in the marriage marts of European royalty, and the fact that the ladies have the right to speak for themselves this season isn't going to make a bit of difference. There simply are not enough men to go around.

Imagine the sad plight of the spinster princess—even one impetuous enough to take advantage of the time-honored but usually embarrassing privileges of Leap Year. To whom, in her own social stratum, could she propose?

Edward, Prince of Wales, perhaps, and one or two other confirmed misogynists. Wales' brothers, Henry and George, probably will marry English girls just as did the Duke of York, so that cuts down the list of eligibles considerably.

100 MANY PRINCESSES

All over Europe thrones have tumbled and some sort of democracy is flourishing as never before. But in the countries where they still have kings there is an unusual supply of pretty and marriageable royal girls. Just as, due to the enormous loss of manpower in the late war, there is an excess of women over men, so due to the changes in various states, there is an excess of princesses over marriageable princes.

Leading the list, perhaps, is the lovely Princess Giovanna of Italy, whom rumor has engaged to most of the men in Europe who even approach eligibility. Her latest fiancé was said to be the son of General Diaz, commander-in-chief of the Italian army. They were playmates from childhood. But no banns have been pronounced and are not likely to be. And Giovanna is the third, last and prettiest of the daughters of the King and Queen of Italy, a highly-educated, sparkling, life-loving, dancing girl.

BEAUTY AND BRAINS

Then there's Princess Maria Jose of Belgium, who made her debut last year. She's got the good looks of her kindly father and the common sense of her wise mother. She's very English in her outlook, because she was brought up in her formative years entirely in English schools. At one time, it was rumored she was to wed an Italian prince, but that was quickly and definitely denied.

Next in the list of important ones is 17-year-old Princess Beatrice of Spain. She, too, has had largely an English education because her mother, the Queen of Spain, is an English princess. She is the royal tomboy of Europe and loves outdoor games above everything else.

A NICE KID

And, of course, there is the little Rumanian beauty, Princess Elena, who had such a good time in America with her mother, Queen Marie. Gossip said she might be Princess of Wales. But that died when it became known that the prince had said: "She's a nice kid." Next in the list is the lovely bachelor, King Boris of Bulgaria. But Boris continues shut up with his books and his scientific instruments in his palace in Sofia.

Princess Irene of Greece, 22, and sister of ex-King George, is another eligible. She was once said to be betrothed to the Duke of Apulia, cousin to Italy's king. And it would have been a splendid match politically, because it would have united two countries that have often been at loggerheads. But the Greek girl with classical Greek profile is still unwed.

MANY ARE WEALTHY

Others in the eligible list are Princess Evdokia, sister and pal of King Boris of Bulgaria; Martha of Sweden, sister of the pretty Astrid, who recently became Crown Princess of Belgium; and a whole flock of Princesses of Luxembourg, all good-looking and all with good-looking bank accounts.

And, finally, there is the girl who is the least suspected about any of them, Princess Juliana of Holland, who some day will be queen in her own right. The future ruler is evidently not thinking of marriage at the present time. She has just rented a cottage near Leyden and she proposes to attend a whole series of lectures at the famous university at that place. She is probably the most high-brow of all the eligible royal girls. As her mother chose a German royalty as prince consort, Dutchman wonder if Juliana will do the same thing some day.

So here they are—some of the prettiest girls in Europe, of royal pedigree and exceptional education. They're the best of their kind, full of pretty airs and graces, ready to adorn any court and win the hearts of any people.

But there are no men. So Leap Year doesn't mean a thing.

LOCAL ENGINEERS TO ATTEND STATE MEETING

Several Appleton engineers are planning to attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State Drainage Engineers' association at Madison next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Principal speakers at the meeting will be W. F. P. Abern, Madison, state president of the Isaac Walton league; E. R. Jones, Madison, state drainage engineer; H. M. Jones, Ashland, president of the association; and A. F. Hamman, president of the Horicon Protective association. The annual association banquet will be held Tuesday evening and the annual business meeting and clearing of officers will be held Wednesday afternoon.

Removing the cause of Constipation

Today most people know how to avoid constipation. First, eat similar foods. Second, get regular exercise. Third, take Chamberlain's Cough Syrup. It's the only medicine that gets rid of the cause of constipation. It's the only medicine that gets rid of the cause of constipation. Pity The Ticket Agent! He Must Know Everything

Some day in one of his leisure moments a certain famous cartoonist would do well to draw a few sketches on What a Railroad Ticket Agent Thinks About. Many persons would probably find their own particular character portrayed in a few of the agent's thoughts.

Did you ever stop and ponder over what a ticket agent thinks about when you go to the window and ask for a parlor car reservation to Chicago, or call on the telephone and inquire about certain trains? Usually you are classed as some one who knows what you are talking about or as someone who is more or less "all wet."

"We've got them all catalogued," the ticket agent of a certain local railroad remarked a few days ago. "The person who just called knows what she's talking about. She has traveled a lot and when she asks about trains it's a pleasure to talk with her. She always knows exactly where she wants to go and by what routes and asks about leaving and arrival times, the fare or asks that you get her ticket."

"The opposite type is the person who calls up and wants to know about every train on half a dozen railroads. What time do I make connections with them? What kind of accommodations have they? When will I get to Popunk or Denver? Can't I leave a little later? and half a dozen other questions that leaves a fellow on edge and with a grouse the remainder of the day."

"Men are a lot of trouble, too, especially the officious fellows and those who think they know something. They'll come up to the window and ask for entirely out of the ordinary accommodations and then boiler to beat the cars when you can't satisfy them. Their fume and threat and even tell you they'll get your job."

"One erroneous idea of many persons is that agents will sell a ticket for any town on their line regardless of the inconvenience and the fact that the patron might better be able to reach the town over a competitive line."

Travelers in Germany who are willing to buy a first-class ticket for each member of their party and twelve additional tickets can have their own parlor car attached to any through train. As first-class travel is only four cents a mile, the privilege is often used.

A Business Opportunity RIGHT HERE

An opportunity to build up a permanent, profitable business is open in this town. Selling ability and some acquaintance with farmers are the only requirements.

This offer comes from one of the oldest and best known manufacturers of Power Farming Machinery and Horse-drawn Implements. The Company is strong financially and has a reputation for honest dealings. The line is extensive, well advertised and popular with farmers. This is a real opportunity to make money.

EQUITY ASSOCIATION SPONSORS HISTORICAL EXHIBITS AT SEYMOUR

Show and School Program Will Be Held at Auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday

A historical show and school program sponsored by the equity association will be held in the Seymour auditorium, Feb. 14 and 15. Plans for the two-day event, which were recently completed, call for a competitive display of old articles of historical value and the awarding of prizes. A historical program has been arranged by county schools and will be given Tuesday evening.

The display of old articles will include dishes, furniture, clothing, books, tools and other relics of former days. The first day of the event has been designated as entry day.

Three speakers of wide reputation quest to the attorney-general, Mr. Callahan, superintendent of public instruction, points out that 25 cities of the fourth class are affected by the law.

The manner of operating the schools in these cities, under its provisions, is made confusing, he says, not only in the matter of electing or appointing school officers, but in the length of term for which they are chosen.

The number of school board members in cities throughout the state varies, Mr. Callahan says, from 3 to 16. Figures for a few of the cities are: Antigo, 8; Laraboo, 4; Bloomer, 3; Chippewa Falls, 10; Marshfield, 7; Mellen, 6; Menasha, 11; Merrill, 11; Neenah, 5; Oconto, 7; Park Falls, 3; Portage, 5; Rhineland, 7; South Milwaukee, 7; Sturgeon Bay, 4; Watertown, 14; Wisconsin Rapids, 15; Whitewater, 3.

The Janesville school board has found itself faced with the possibility that an entire new board of education of nine members might have to be elected from the city at large in the April election. It, too, has asked for an interpretation of the statute.

The codification attempts to provide a uniform method of selecting school board members. The legal department, however, has as yet been unable to advise the public instruction department of the date on which such selection should be held; whether an entirely new board is to be elected from the city at large, or whether one-third of the present membership shall be chosen at the April election, and the other two-thirds permitted to continue in office until the expiration of their respective terms.
